BOOKISH BEAUTY

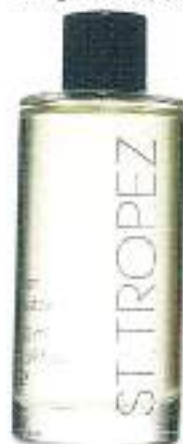

History junkies like me are sure to love 100,000 Years of Beauty, $225, which, with the help of beauty giant L'Oréal, compiles the aesthetic know-how of more than 300 writers from 35 nations (think Egyptian face paint and beer-as-blusher tricks) into five coffee-table-chic volumes.

Streamlined Style

Ever the minimalist, designer Narciso Rodriguez packs his spring beauty essentials (a peachy, universally flattering blush and Essence perfume spray) into a single sleek palette, $84.

GLOW ON

With skin cancer still on the rise and the FDA currently retooling its tanning-bed rules, I say all the more reason to rock a sunless glow. The key to smoothing hibernating skin (and erasing any remains of bottle-bronzing): St. Tropez's aptly named Tan Detox oil and exfoliating cloth set, $35.

Fresh Paint

DAMAGE CONTROL

Reprieve from the host of hot irons and dryers needed for spring's sculptural hairstyles: SPLURGE Bumble and Bumble Mending Complex for the Truly Damaged, $33. STEAL Neutrogena Triple Moisture Split-End Mender, $6.99.

GENIUS: A SWEETLY SCENTED SUNSCREEN

IN A PORTABLE PACKAGE! TOCCA SPF 30+

SUNSCREEN TOWELETTE IN STELLA, EIGHT FOR $30.

SPRING FLINGS

These bright bottles and the sparkly citrus notes they contain evoke a freshness that instantly kicks my winter rut: Acqua di Parma Blu Mediterraneo Bergamotto di Calabria Eau de Toilette, $70; Bond No. 9 High Line Eau de Parfum, $145.
