A Breath of Sea Air

Bond No. 9 looks to the sea for a celebration of Shelter Island life.

Shelter Island's unique medley of pristine sandy expanses, untouched natural preserve land, and idyllic cottages served as the sweet inspiration for Bond No. 9's latest fragrant ode to coastal living, following in the footsteps of its East End neighbors. Part of Bond's line of New York tributes, the unisex scent's beachy appeal is apparent right down to the nautically striped take on the iconic bottle. Billed as the world's first marine oud, Shelter Island mixes the fragrant hardwood note with an algae extract that evokes the fresh feeling of the shore. 45 Main St., Sag Harbor, 725-7467; bondno9.com

NADINE HAMPTON'S NEW WESTHAMPTON BEACH BOUTIQUE EXUDES COASTAL CHARM.

WITH THE BOLD PROMISE THAT “anything you would need a gift for, I will be able to do,” Nadine Hampton strikes a balance between everyday essentials and the whimsically beautiful in Hampton House, her recently opened Westhampton Beach gift and houseware emporium. With a private label featuring artfully packaged, hand-poured, all-natural candles and soaps produced in Brooklyn, the aptly named shop appeals to both travelers and residents in providing an independent alternative for sheets, towels, barware, and other essentials. Hampton's carefully selected inventory includes Lafco's luxe bath products, La Cadeaux's French country-inspired tableware, and Beatriz Ball's hand-molded metalware, giving the space an expertly curated feel. As Hampton puts it, “My whole aesthetic is very coastal and beachy. I don't want to compete with Bed Bath & Beyond.” 108 Main St., Westhampton Beach, 288-2202 H
