Beauty Cheat Sheet

Smell Incredible All Night

Strategically apply your perfume (combine any two of the tips below) and it'll never short-fuse again.

Blake Lively, the new face of Gucci fragrances

1 Dab Vaseline, $3, onto the fronts of your ankles and the backs of your knees, then spritz with perfume. Scent rises, so it's key to affix it to these low pulse points.

2 Spray one of your inner wrists and press (don't rub—doing so breaks up the notes so they fade) it against the other one for five seconds.

3 Mist your cleavage and the area of your bra where the cups connect (unless it's silk). The heated heart-zone is great at propelling scent molecules.

4 Apply perfume to a dollop of hair smoothing cream, and apply it to the bottom 2 inches of your hair, the most porous and absorbent part.

THE PREP

Slather your body with unscented lotion. Perfume clings best to well-hydrated skin (and a bland moisturizer won't mix with or disrupt the scent).
